

Effective May 19, all COVID business restrictions will be lifted in the State of Connecticut. The Department of Public Health has issued a statement clarifying that masks and social distancing will no longer be needed outdoors and in public places. After May 19, Quassy Amusement Park will no longer require guests to wear masks or practice social distancing while out in the ride area of the park or at Splash Away Bay waterpark. Individuals who have not been vaccinated should wear a mask when they go inside Quassy's buildings.

As the state continues to update its guidelines, so will Quassy Amusement Park. Safety and fun for all of our guests is paramount. Also, respecting each other's beliefs and boundaries along with working together for a safe and fun summer is the ultimate goal as we navigate the process of reopening our state.
